COMMUNITY CORNER

- San Francisco 49ers players recently spent their Community Tuesday at a Crucial Catch Art Therapy event presented by Dignity Health where 10 cancer warriors, who have either battled or are currently battling their disease, joined DL Nick Bosa, OL Colton McKivitz, LB Curtis Robinson and 16 other 49ers players to create custom denim jackets that were donated by Levi's®.
- The cancer warriors were selected in partnership with two nonprofits, American Cancer Society and Okizu, along with two other participants chosen by Dignity Health. The canvases they painted were inspired by the prompt, "what does strength mean to you?" and a piece of a ribbon, a representation of different cancers, that they painted to form one cohesive ribbon that will be used on the jackets and incorporated into other elements of this week's Crucial Catch game.
